Collaborative CPD practices through Non- formal education (NFE)

Thursday, 7 September 2023 (3:30PM – 4:30PM)

www.britishcouncil.org

The Teacher Takeaway Webinars

The 2023 Teacher Takeaway webinar series will offer local insight and practical Continuous Professional Development (CPD) ideas that support teachers engaged in English Language Teaching (ELT) and other English-related educational contexts within Myanmar. The webinars will offer local perspectives on topics of global and local interest and share relevant resources that teachers can reference for their own classroom use.

Today's Event: Collaborative CPD practices through Non-formal education

We will explore some ideas and tips shared by fellow educators from Myanmar on how different collaborative approaches and practices in Non-formal education can support a wide range of stakeholders in Myanmar. The event will offer both Principles and practical ideas for our audience to take back to their classrooms or local contexts.

What is NFE?

Objective

The main objective of non-formal education is the same as formal education that is to lead to wisdom, accomplishment and development amongst the individuals.

(Hoppers, 2006).

Differences between Formal and Non-formal Education

Formal	Non-Formal
Long term general education	Short term/ specific education
Future- oriented	Facilitates immediate learning
Takes place in educational institutions	Does not necessarily take place in schools
Fixed time- terms Academic years	Flexi-time- short courses more choices

Four types of NFE

Four types of NFE

Paranormal Education	Popular Education	Personal Development Activities	Professional training
A variety of types of evening classes (all kinds of various educational programmes)	Adult literacy projects Skill improvement for diffent catagories including digital literacy	Educational and instututions (museums, libraries, cultural centres, clubs, social circles)	Professional and vocational training (artistic, agriculture, crafts, health assistants)
Official literacy programmes (Guided reading, writing and working with words, media, cultural, information)	Supportive trainings Experiential learning activities – sewing, cooking, arts and crafts, homemade/ handmade, repairing things	Promoting leisure time activities (astronomy, observation of the natural environment, playing music)	Commercial and administrative communications (home economics, managerial, advertising, public relations)
Distance education programme (part-time schooling, degree awarded in the equivalent levels of the formal education)	Community development movements Collaborate with voluntary organisations	Extra curricular activities (handicrafts, artworks, sports, dance, physical activities)	Academic support (foreign language, preschool, sociology and psychology)

How to promote autonomous learning as an educator

- Teaching alone is not enough for the progress of the learners.
- Put them in touch with real world context by using appropriate authentic materials as teaching aids.
- Set a personalisation task in each lesson for enhancing productive skills of the learners.
- Cultivate extensive reading and listening habits among the learners.
- Introduce self-studying tools and websites in class.
- Encourage doing self-assessment or peer assessment by setting rubrics.
- Function as a facilitator rather than a teacher.

Libraries as NFE resource centres

Programmes and activities for Learners

- Self-learning corners - self-study books, tools for audio practice, computer with internet access

Importance of CPD

- To enhance the range of skills, abilities, aptitudes and competencies
- To focus on learning and improvement of life skills and active citizenship
- To involve both individual and group learning with a collective approach
- To understand the contribution towards the development of abilities and skills

Approaches and Methods for Teachers

Approaches and Methods for Teachers

- Providing experienced teachers with appropriate knowledge and expertise to give practical lessons
- Designing programmes with after-school hours
- Using interactive and practical approaches that make it easy for learners to understand various methods of learning
- Providing each student with adequate space and time to learn skills
- Teaching strategies with personal growth as well as delicate issues which are handled proactively with utmost care
- Adapting approaches according to an individual's needs on a personal level

A small raindrop is nothing, but a collection of those can form a river, which can supply enough water for the needy.

The more we collaborate, the better we contribute to fulfilling community needs.

The Sustainable Development Goals

Use this lesson to introduce the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals to your primary learners.

Introduction

This lesson plan is based on activities from the British Council publication integrating global issues in the creative English language classroom, which provides innovative ideas for teaching while raising awareness of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

In this lesson, which helps introduce the goals, learners think about what goals the world might need. Then they discover what each goal is and what it means, and decide which ones they think are the most important and why. Finally, they design an icon for one or more of the goals, which they share with the class.

Aims:

- To predict and raise awareness of world issues and the Sustainable Development Goals.
- To build learners' vocabulary for describing world issues and solutions.
- To prioritise and encourage justification of choices.
- To develop creativity and design skills.

Age and level:

Primary (8–12 years) at CEFR level A2 and above.

Time:

90–99 minutes approximately or two shorter lessons

Materials:

The lesson plan and student materials can be downloaded below in PDF format.

- lesson plan for face-to-face teaching
- lesson plan for remote teaching
- images showing key world issues, as appropriate for your learners (optional, to display – stage 1)
- matching strips (one copy per class/age group, cut up – stage 3)
- matching worksheet (one copy per learner – stage 3)
- examples of common icons (to display – stage 4)
- icons template (one copy per learner – stage 4)
- official goal icons, available from <https://www.globalgoals.org/resources/> (to display – stage 4)
